Junior European Cup 2009

1 Welcome

Dear Orienteering Friends,

We are happy to welcome you to the Junior European Cup 2009, which will take place in Germany from 23 to 25 October 2009. The venue for this event will be the magnificent sandstone mountains of the Saxon Switzerland and parts of the old town of Pirna, a small town about 30 kilometres to the east of Dresden.

2 Venue

Following the upper Elbe Valley from Dresden – the Gate to Saxon Switzerland – passing Pillnitz Castle and Königstein Fortress, one reaches the Elbe Sandstone Mountains in less than an hour. The landmarks of this mountain range are the steep sandstone rocks overlooking the Elbe banks, which made the national park a mecca for sporty climbers and hikers. But also those who are looking for peace and rest will find their ideal place in one of the spas of Saxon Switzerland.

Already for the World Cup finals in 2004, the steep slopes and rock labyrinths all around the village of Cunnersdorf were used as competition area for the long distance and relay events. Thus it is a worthy place for the supreme discipline of the JEC 2009 to find the successors to the then winners Simone Niggli-Luder and Holger Hott Johansen. As for the relay races, only three perfect races in physically highly demanding terrain will allow you to follow in the footsteps of the Swedish men and women who won the team events in 2004.

Location and Accessibility

Dresden is situated in the southeast of Germany, about 180 km to the south of the German capital Berlin. It is easy to reach by car and train from all directions and has an international airport with daily service for example to Frankfurt/Main. Furthermore, Dresden can be reached via the international airports of Berlin (180 km) and Halle-Leipzig (120 km).

12 Training

There will be possibilities for training/a model event directly at the event centre on the "Lassensteine" map, which is relevant for the long distance and the relay event.

About 40 orienteering maps with various types of terrain are available for the Dresden area. The orienteers of the Dresden orienteering clubs are happy to assist with selecting maps and preparing courses. If you are interested in these maps, please contact the organizer.

13 Competition Rules

The Junior European Cup will be held according to the "IOF Competition Rules" as of 1 June 2009.

14 Clothes

There are no special rules for clothing, but we recommend to wear long running trousers. There is a general ban on spikes. Studded shoes are permitted.

15 Weather and Climate

Central European climate. Weather conditions may vary from sunshine to short showers or extended rainfall. At the end of October, temperatures may vary from 5 to 18 degrees Celsius. The Probability for snowfall is relatively low

16 Insurance

Participation at the Junior European Cup 2009 is at the competitors' own risk. Each participant or official or the entering federations are responsible for valid accident insurance according to the national rules. The organizer will provide medical first aid at the competition sites.

17 Team Leaders

Each participating federation has to nominate a team leader who will act as contact between team and organizer. The team leader is responsible for forwarding all necessary information to the team members. The contact information of the team leader needs to be mentioned in the final entry (see entry form).
